FRAUD ALERTS

Scammers post fake ads on social media

These scams happen year-round, but they spike during the holidays. Scammers post fake ads for popular items and link to websites designed to steal your pay-

How it can happen:

I had no present and an unhappy daughter

I wanted to surprise my daughter for the holidays with a handbag she'd been eyeing. I must've been tracked by cookies because an ad popped up on my social media feed for the exact bag — 30% off as part of a "Holiday Sale."

The site looked just like the one I'd visited the week before, so I bought the purse with my credit card.

Hours later, my bank contacted me to ask if I'd made some large charges, which I hadn't. They canceled my card and sent me a new one, but the bag never arrived.

The website I bought from had been cloned by a scammer and made to look just like the real one. I had to find a different gift to give my daughter.

I wish I'd known:

- Scammers run professional-looking ads, especially around the holidays.
- Fake websites often mimic real retailers but use slightly altered URLs. I should've made sure I was on the brand's official website.
- "Limited-time sales" and low prices are common fraud tactics.
- If it feels too good to be true, it most likely is.

FRAUD ALERTS

The 'great sale on your favorite brand' scam

Scammers create ads on social media offering merchandise at great prices and set up bogus websites that all look exactly like genuine retailers. They'll collect personal information or ask you to pay with a digital payment platform like Zelle® when you go to "check out".

How it can happen:

I was scrolling on social and saw a sale ad for one of my favorite brands. It looked just like other ads I'd bought from before. The discount was really good, so I clicked on it and went to what looked exactly like their website, even with the free shipping headline.

When I went to check out, I thought it was odd I couldn't find a place for my credit card, just options for digital payment platforms like Zelle®. But I thought no big deal and paid with Zelle®. I got suspicious when I didn't get a confirmation email right away like I usually do. I waited about three weeks, but the merchandise never showed up. I tried to put in a claim for fraud with my bank, but I was told there's no way to get my money back.

Help protect yourself

Always type in a company's website address yourself to see if special sales or promo codes are listed there. If not, the ad you're seeing and the website it's taking you to are likely a scam. Where possible use your credit card which offers protection features that may not be there if you pay by other means.

PROTECT YOUR PACKAGES FROM PORCH PIRATES

Scored some amazing Cyber Monday deals?! Make sure those gifts land in your hands and not thieves!

The Largo Police Department urges everyone to take proactive steps to prevent package thefts.

-  Opt for a signature requirement upon delivery
-  Schedule deliveries when someone is home
-  Ask a neighbor to collect your packages if you're not around
-  Consider using a smart locker or a secure device for package deliveries

If you see something suspicious, call the Largo Police Department at 727-587-6730.
